

Dear {contact.first},
Welcome to your Clinerion Courier.

COVID-19 and Digital Health

by Douglas Drake, Customer Solutions Director, Clinerion

I always considered myself digitally forward: able to manage my phone, support my wife's phone, our computers, our digital TVs, cameras, routers, cables, wireless, Bluetooth, Wi-Fi, social media, virtual friends, pixels, and bagels. Then a global pandemic called COVID-19 occurred and what was digital convenience became digital necessity. [...]

Are you doing research about COVID-19?

Among our patient network, thousands of EHRs correspond to patients with covid-19. This enables the generation of analytics about comorbidities and treatments, as well as demographics within our patient network.

The Patient's Perspective

Testicular Cancer Awareness Month: Sébastien's story

Our colleague, Sébastien Wischlen, is not only a former nurse with a scientific background – he's also a patient himself, and a cancer survivor.

Who could better relate to this cancer which, despite most people's unfamiliarity with it, affects 1 out of 250 men in their lifetime.
