SCRS Global Impact Partner Program Grows with Addition of Clinerion.

The Society for Clinical Research Sites (SCRS) announced yesterday that Clinerion has joined the organization as a Global Impact Partner (GIP). Sean Soth, SCRS Senior Vice President of Strategy & Global Business Partnerships shared, "Intelligent patient data and analytics will be a pathway for site sustainability in the years ahead. Clinerion's support of sites and their experience with patient search efficiency will provide unique insights for our audiences and industry. SCRS welcomes the Clinerion team's ideas, dedication and insight to the Global Impact Partner program."

"Clinerion is looking forward to a great collaboration with SCRS as a GIP member, based on our mutual principles of supporting clinical trial sites with access to trials, improving trial efficiency and sharing best practices," said Luis Magalhaes, Clinerion's Customer Solutions Director. "Clinerion's worldwide network of hospitals can benefit greatly from SCRS' expertise and we expect SCRS will benefit from Clinerion's global reach as they expand beyond the USA.
